

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A semiconductor component and a method for a semiconductor substrate, in which a first section and a second section are provided, and in which the pore structure of the first section 5 differs from the pore structure of the second section.